For a pedestrian dynamic in the Brussels-Capital Region

walk is striving for a city where pedestrians are visible and active, not only in the streets and public spaces, but also in the social and political debate. walk aims to ensure that pedestrians and walking are given priority at all levels.

walk advocate a Brussels-Capital Region on a human scale, where walking is the norm. A region where walking is accessible to all, safe, practical and pleasant and synonymous with independence and a good quality of life.

The walk platform brings together Brussels stakeholders around walking, whether for leisure or in everyday life. walk's activities are multidisciplinary and encompass mobility, public space, urban planning, road safety, health, ecology, biodiversity, sport, leisure and culture.
